Narrative of the Massacre at Chicago, August 15, 1812, and of Some Preceding Events (Classic Reprint) John H. Kinzie

This little record, taken, many years since, from the lips of those who had been eye-witnesses of the events described, was not designed for publication. It was made simply for the purpose of preserving to the children of the writer a faithful picture of the perilous scenes through which those near and dear to them, had been called to pass. This will excuse many personal and family details which it contains. At the solicitation of many friends, and to avoid the possibility of its unauthorized appearance in print, the writer has consented to its publication in its original form.

(Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and don't occur in the book.)
