Excerpt from Church Communion: As Practiced by the Baptists, Explained and Defended

The substance of the following treatise on Church Communion was preached, by special appointment, before the "Bracken Baptist Association," of Northern Kentucky, in the fall of 1853; and in the fall of 1856, the author was requested by that body to condense the sermon into a circular letter for the churches composing the body. Several thousand copies were printed and circulated with profit to the members. This accounts for the fact that the present book retains somewhat the form of the original discourse.

A copy of the minutes containing the circular was sent to the "Southern Baptist Publication Society" then located in Charleston, S. C., and, in 1858, that society requested permission to republish the letter in a permanent form, as "A Tract for the People."
